duties

Investigative Unit agents are charged with enforcing Ohio's liquor laws, portions of the Ohio Revised Code and the regulations of the Liquor Control Commission. Special emphasis is placed on the sale to and consumption of alcoholic beverages by persons under 21 years of age.

Agents become involved in enforcement-related areas such as gambling, prostitution and narcotics while enforcing the Liquor Control Commission's regulations.

Agents enforce laws against the sale of tobacco products to those people under 18 years of age.

The Investigative Unit is the only state law enforcement entity dedicated solely to the prevention and detection of illegal use of food stamp benefits. Enforcement agents work with federal, state and local law enforcement agencies throughout the state to detect, investigate and prosecute those people improperly using these benefits.

Enforcement agents work undercover and must be adept at playing any role that will allow them to blend in with the clientele of the premises that is under investigation.

New agents cannot receive a permanent appointment until they have satisfactorily completed basic police training as requested by the Ohio Peace Officer Training Council. This training will be provided by the department at no cost to the successful candidate.

training/equipment

Those who have previously received the required training must apply to the Ohio Peace Officer Training Council for recertification. Additional training may be required for such certification. This training will be provided at no cost.

In addition, agents will receive in-depth training in liquor and food stamp enforcement laws, regulations and investigative techniques.

public relations

Agents act as a liaison between the Ohio Department of Public Safety and other law enforcement agencies across the state, cooperating and assisting in law enforcement activities. They serve as instructors at police schools and give speeches and lectures to schools and civic organizations as part of "The Sober Truth" program, Alcohol Server Education and the Speakers' Bureau.
