OIU Agents Remind Parents and Students of Ohio's Alcohol Law Ahead of Prom

(Columbus) – Prom season in Ohio is about to get underway. High school students throughout the state are getting prom plans in place – including what they will be doing after the prom.

In an effort to make this a safe prom season, agents with the Ohio State Highway Patrol's Ohio Investigative Unit (OIU) hope parents and students make the decision not to participate in illegal and dangerous behavior, such as providing alcohol to minors and consuming underage.

“No matter how safe you believe your home party will be for your child and his/her friends, providing a place for illegal behavior can be recipe for disaster,” said Captain Gary Allen, commander of OIU. “Prom is a rite of passage. Students and parents should not put their futures in jeopardy for an after prom party.”

To help foster good choices, parents and teens need to understand Ohio's underage drinking laws.

- It is illegal to provide a place for your child and his/her friends to drink in a “safe” environment. In fact, parents may not provide alcohol to children who are under 21, who are not their own, even in their own home with the other parents' permission. Those convicted of providing alcohol to a person under 21 years of age face maximum sentences of six months in jail and/or a $1,000 fine.
- It is illegal to purchase alcohol for anyone under 21. Anyone who purchases, sells or gives alcoholic beverages to underage individuals faces a $1,000 fine and/or up to six months in jail.
- If you are under 21 and are caught driving with a blood alcohol concentration of .02 percent or higher, a level that can be reached after just one or two drinks, you can be arrested. Punishment is suspension of your driver license for at least 90 days up to a maximum of two years, plus four points added to your driving record. Having an open container of alcohol in a motor vehicle is also illegal.

Also, carry outs and drive-through establishments should be on alert for underage individuals attempting to purchase alcohol. Agents remind liquor permit staff to ensure they are making a good faith effort to verify the purchaser's age. Agents also recommend limo companies review policies with their drivers and ensure they know they may also be charged with permitting underage consumption.
